Description:

In this thoughtful, mesmerizing tale with echoes of Station Eleven, the author of An Uncommon Education follows a group of survivors thrown together in the aftermath of two major earthquakes that strike San Francisco within an hour of each other—an achingly beautiful and lyrical novel about the power of nature, the resilience of the human spirit, and the enduring strength of love. On Valentine's Day, two major earthquakes strike San Francisco within the same hour, devastating the city and its primary entry points, sparking fires throughout, and leaving its residents without power, gas, or water. Among the disparate survivors whose fates will become intertwined are Max, a man who began the day with birthday celebrations tinged with regret; Vashti, a young woman who has already buried three of the people she loved most . . . but cannot forget Max, the one man who got away; and Gene, a Stanford geologist who knows far too much about the terrifying earthquakes that have damaged this beautiful city and irrevocably changed the course of their lives. As day turns to night and fires burn across the city, Max and Vashti—trapped beneath the rubble of the collapsed Nob Hill Masonic Auditorium—must confront each other and face the truth about their past, while Gene embarks on a frantic search through the realization of his worst nightmares to find his way back to his ailing lover and their home.

The beauty of this book is that it is a page-turner that makes you stop and consider your life in remarkable ways. Told in a wonderfully layered multi-character style, I found myself sucked in at the first page, unable to stop until I had finished every last drop. It is impossible to read a story like this without putting yourself right in the middle of the action - especially in today's world, where every day headlines make you say, thank god I wasn't there. What if you are there? The beauty here is that those elemental questions are raised with such profound nuance that as a reader you are left with remarkable insights into your own sense of love, loss, courage and endurance. This is a book for our collective human condition at this exact moment in time. I cannot wait to share and discuss with my book club!
